Woking

This County is bounded on the North side by the River Thames, which divides it from Middlesex: and is call'd Surrey from its Situation on the South side of that River. Near the South West corner of the County rises the River Wey, which after receiving several small Rivulets falls into the Thames by a double Channel near Weybridge. The River Mole rises in the South part of the County & near Darking runs under Boxhill about 2 Miles, then becomes visible again, and falls into the Thames near East Moulsey. The River Vandal springs near Cashalton, & disembogues it self at Wandsworth.

The W. side of this County is divided from Cumberland by Winander Meer, & the River Winster. The N.W. Boundary is the River Eimot, which receives the Loder, and at last unites with the Eden. The S. part of the County is divided into 2 by the Can or Ken, which gives name to Kendale & the Lone or Lune after having receiv'd the River Burrow is the Boundary to Yorkshire, then passes by Kirby Lonsdale into Lancashire. The River Eden rises in the E. part of the County, receives first the little River Belo, afterwards Blenkern, & at the N. point unites with Eimot, and flows into Cumberland.
